Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-27 and 89-111, drawn to a method of evaluating a drug under two timed conditions, classified in class 436.
- II. Claims 28-61, drawn to a method of evaluating a drug under a single timed condition, classified in class 436.
- III. Claims 62-72, drawn to a process for developing a drug that requires the steps of testing for stability and compatibility and subsequent clinical trials, classified in class 514.
- IV. Claims 73-88, drawn to a method of testing 40mg of a drug candidate by exposing the 40mg to at least one controlled condition and one test, classified in class 514.
- V. Claims 112-121, drawn to a method of testing a drug to conditions of controlled light, humidity and temperature, classified in class 607.
- VI. Claims 122-130, drawn to a method of generating data, classified in class 700.
- VII. Claims 131-134, drawn to a computer program product, classified in class 705.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II-VII are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects (MPEP § 802.01 and § 806.06). In the instant case, the different inventions Invention I has a different mode of operation in that it requires exposure of the drugs to a first control and subsequent evaluation of the drugs to a first and second time periods.

Inventions II and III-VII are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects (MPEP § 802.01 and § 806.06). In the instant case, the different inventions II have a different mode of operation in that it requires exposure of the drugs to a first control and subsequent evaluation of the drugs to a first time period.

Inventions III and IV-VII are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects (MPEP § 802.01 and § 806.06). In the instant case, the different inventions III have a different mode of operation in that it requires screening of drugs for stability and compatibility with other drugs and a clinical trial.

Inventions IV and V-VII are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects (MPEP § 802.01 and § 806.06). In the instant case, the different inventions IV have a different mode of operation in that it requires 40mg of the trial drug to be exposed a first control and subsequent evaluation of the drugs to a first and second exposures.

Inventions V and VI-VII are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects (MPEP § 802.01 and § 806.06). In the instant case, the different inventions V has a different mode of operation that requires the generation of data.

Inventions VI and VII are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects (MPEP § 802.01 and § 806.06). In the instant case, the different inventions VII has a different mode of operation as a computer program.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious burden on the examiner if restriction is not required because the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art due to their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
